DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 3-6 fails to further define independent claim 2. Claim 2 specifies relatively narrow limitations which are improperly broadened in the dependent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the article authored by Paula Gardiner in view of USP 5,607,754 (Giles et al.).

Page 2 of the Gardiner article discloses that Peppermint oil can be applied externally as a rub or liniment and has been used externally for headaches. The Giles et al. patent discloses paper web products including wet wipes which include peppermint as an essential oil providing a decongesting effect to the user. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use the wet wipes disclosed in Giles et al. as a means to apply peppermint oil externally as a rub or liniment as disclosed in the Paula Gardiner article.

The dilution ratios specified in claims 2 and 4, the wood pulp percentage specified in claims 2 and 3, the weight density specified in claims 2 and 5, are considered to be obvious result-effective variables disclosed in Gardiner and Giles et al.

In the absence of unexpected results the dimensions specified in claim 5 are obvious.

RESPONSE TO AMENDMENTS

The amendments "consisting of" limiting the claims to the elements specified are sufficient to withdraw the rejections in view of EP 1285958 since the rosewater and camomile are considered to be necessary to the disclosed cleaning composition.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
